The Romans executed Jesus because he preached this Kingdom of God, a kingdom based on peace and justice, over the empire of Rome, which ruled by violence and force. For Jesus and Paul, Crossan explains, peace cannot be won the Roman way, through military victory, but only through justice and fair and equal treatment of all people.

He sees Jesus as part of a Jewish tradition of resistance to Babylonian, Roman, and other empires. Crossan recognizes violence in some of that tradition but he emphasizes (rightly) that Jesus stands as the fulfillment of the nonviolent strand. Resisting the violence of empire while standing for justice therefore lie at the heart of Jesus's message.
